POWERFUL CLOSING LINE

(If a person tells you they don't have the money) “ What you you're really telling me is that you don't have the desire! I'm looking for someone that has the desire to change the quality of their life! Would that person be you? Yes? Or No? (Keep silent. The first one who speaks is the supplicant.)

ICE BREAKERS

ONCE YOU HAVE THE CONVERSATION OPEN A BIT USE THESE THOUGH PROVOKING OR POSTURING STATEMENTS

1. I'm working with a company that is actually (not theoretically) retiring busy people 15 to 20 years early. Does that sound like something that interests you?
2. I'm working with a few really sharp individuals with a multi -million dollar company that will pay people to save their own money. We are looking for more sharp people open to making money outside of what they are currently doing do you know anyone that would be interested?
3. Would you be open minded to hear about a business if it could potentially add substantially to your income, without jeopardizing what you do now?

HOW TO FIND OUT WHAT PEOPLE WANT

The small questions below will help you find out what people want. What ever they tell you is what you can use to close them. If your prospect believes you understand what they want then they believe you can satisfy their need. They will more likely join wakeupnow because it has a strong product and service. Work these question in between your call script

“What are the most important qualities you feel a product or service should have?”

“What are the most important things a product or service should do for you?”

(Important what ever they tell you, you make sure its your favorite quality and use what they say as a selling point. Example they may say “I want a service that’s saves me money”. You say “That’s exactly what I love about this program and the reason I joined because it has saved me a ton of money that’s a very good quality”)
